Who is ASHCA?

The Agricultural Safety & Health Council of America (ASHCA) is a non-profit organization established in 2007, to pursue national strategies to create a less hazardous work environment for American agriculture.

Our Mission

Our mission is to proactively address ongoing and emerging occupational safety and health issues affecting U.S. agriculture.

Your support of ASHCA allows ASHCA to:

- Host the National Agricultural Safety Summit and bring together agricultural safety professionals, producers, farmers and researchers to learn the latest in safety updates.
- Provide AgSHARP® safety training, continue program development and recruit more program participants.
- Create and hold workshops on safety-specific topics that bring researchers and industry together to identify needs in the safety and health space and create solutions that work for the agriculture industry.

Your partnership allows your organization or business to:

- Shape ASHCA's future work and programming through your ideas and feedback.
- Help build AgSHARP® safety programming topics and information.
- Be a part of conversations that shape the future of agriculture safety research and practices.
- Be a part of the impact that prevents agricultural safety incidents, injuries and fatalities, making agriculture safer for everyone.
